If I were mayor, I would like to see less litter in my town. I don't like litter, litter is ugly. It can hurt the animals. It can also spread germs and make people sick. People who smoke, throw cigarettes on the ground, could start fires hurting or damaging all kinds of things.

To make less litter in the future, we will need more trash cans. Another way to have less litter is to punish people who do it. Some towns have cameras. If someone gets caught littering on a camera I would make them spend a Saturday cleaning it all up.

People can watch others clean up trash to learn to do it safely. The people who do the best job can win a prize. They could even have volunteers come around to see if there is no or not much litter on the ground. There could be a pick up picnic day. That is where people come together to pick up trash and make new friends at the picnic.

Finally, there could be a children's project called "Pick up with new". The "Pick up with new" project is where children make new inventions to help pick up litter. About ten kids per invention.
